WAR IDEA IS ABHORENT TO US., GERMANY TELLS ALLIES

Claims To Have Disarmed Political Organisations

ACCEPTS TERMS

Asks Delay Of Month, Which To Paris Is Subterfuge

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 30.—A forecast of the German reply to the note of the Conference of Ambassadors on the subject of Inter-Allied military control says that it accepts resumption provided (1) that it is deferred for one month; (2) that the Control Commission shall resume its mission by an inspection of factories; and (3) that the investigations of the Commission shall be limited to seeing laws promulgated prohibiting dealing in war material, carrying out the destruction of mobilisation plans and providing for the non-existence of armed forces contrary to the Treaty of Versailles.

The first stipulation is stated to be in order to enable the preparation of German public opinion, but it is believed in Paris that it is merely to create a postponement until the results of the London Conference on July 16 have become known. The reply disregards the additional claim of the Conference of Ambassadors that the Commission shall make an inventory of German armaments which, if it turned out to be reassuring, would result in the limitation of Allied occupation to supervision of the use of police and the disposal of existing war material.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 30.—The German Ambassador today presented to M. Herriot the German reply to the Allied note on military control.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 30.—The German reply declares that the Germans repudiate the mere idea of war. They unanimously repudiate secret arming as impossible, useless and dangerous. It says that the Government have thoroughly carried out the disarmament of certain political organisations. The athletic exercises of German youth are not connected with military preparations by Germany.

The reply further says that no experienced military officer can hold the opinion that Germany is in a position to cause armed conflict in Europe, because she is in a condition of helplessness in the history of nations. It suggests that the fears of danger to European peace are due to the fact that the idea of general disarmament has not made any noteworthy progress among the other nations.

Germany accepts the demand of the Allies for a general inspection provided it is final and is concluded by September 30.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 1.—According to the Echo de Paris, the first version of the text of the German reply to the Allied Note handed to the French Charge d'Affaires in Berlin contained the three reservations mentioned in the forecast. The French Charge d'Affaires immediately declared that they were unacceptable. Subsequently Lord O'Abernon, the British Ambassador, supported his protest and the experts in Paris urged that the reply should be rejected. The German Government then revised the Note and did not mention the reservations.

Liquor Schooner Crew Held Guilty

(Reuter's American Service)

Galveston, July 1.—The Federal Court has found Farrell, the master British schooner, Island Home, and seven members of the crew, who were arrested on November 24, 1923, outside the three-mile limit, guilty of conspiring to violate tariff measures and the Prohibition Law.

All Preparations Made For July Fourth Program Of American Community

Flag-Raising Ceremony To Usher In Day; Columbia Club Dance Is Tomorrow Night

Preparations are practically complete for the celebration Friday of the Fourth of July by the local American community and indications are that it will be one of the most successful celebrations ever held here.

The American Consul-General Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, and the members of the permanent Fourth of July Committee, as well as members of the special committees, of Columbia Country Club, the Shanghai American Amateur Baseball Club and various other American organisations, have been actively engaged for several weeks past in arranging the program of the day and a most successful observance is assured. The co-operation of the Weather Man is earnestly solicited.

OFFICIAL PROGRAM

The official program will be as follows:

8 a.m.—Flag Raising at the American Consulate-General.

11.30 a.m.—Reception at the American Consulate General

3 p.m.—Baseball Game at the Recreation Ground Race Club, Shanghai versus Navy, for the Cup championship.

5 p.m.—American Community Lawn Party, Recreation Grounds, Race Club.

At the flag raising ceremony there will also be an announcement of the prize winners in the essay contest inaugurated by Consul-General Cunningham for American school children here. The Consul-General offered two cash prizes to American students, of whatever school, for the best essays written on one of the following subjects (1)—"The American Flag in China before 1870," "American Ideals in Old China," "American and the Building of Shanghai," (2) "America and the Future China," "The Place of American Ideals and Institutions in China," "What is a Good American in China?"

ESSAY CONTEST

There has been a very gratifying response to the contest offer and Mr. Cunningham hopes to make it an annual affair. The winning essays will be read at the flag-raising.

There will also be an address delivered at the flag raising ceremony by Lieutenant Commander A. Loder, U. S. N. on "The Use of the Flag," and small American flags will be distributed to all the children attending by Mrs. Cunningham.

All Americans and their friends are invited to attend the official reception to be held at the Consulate-General beginning at 11.30. No personal invitations are being issued. It is expected that there will be a record attendance this year and special preparations are being made to take care of the crowd.

It is announced that the customary reception at the American Club, which has been a feature of former years, will not be held this year, but on the eve of the Fourth—tomorrow night—there will be the annual Fourth of July dance at the Columbia Country Club. Reservations should be sent without delay to the secretary of the Club. Fireworks, imported for the occasion, will be displayed at midnight and supper will be served on the lawn if the weather permits.

CLUB RECEPTION

The usual reception for members of the Columbia Country Club and their friends will be held from 5 o'clock to 8 on the Fourth.

The ball game, starting at 3 p.m., is expected to be a strenuous tussle this year, with the Navy trying to retain the big silver cup for the third year in succession.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the Community Lawn Party at the Race Club. The largest part in the program will be taken by Shanghai American children, who have been drilling under the supervision of Mrs. Gardiner Crane for some time past in a series of tableaux which are sure to be of much interest. Incidents in past and contemporary American history are to be pictured in colorful and piquant style.

JAPANESE MEET ALL OVER COUNTRY TO VOICE PROTEST

American Flag At Embassy Compound Is Torn Down

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 1.—Today is the date of the enforcement of exclusion by America and Japan is registering a nation-wide protest by means of mass-meetings, pilgrimages to national shrines, posters and handbills, as well as resolutions of the Upper and Lower Houses of the Diet.

The character of the protests is best exemplified by the posters, which were freely distributed throughout the city yesterday night. They call on the Japanese not to forget July 1," when an intolerable disgrace was inflicted on Japan's good name." They urge the people to give up everything American (which may be interpreted to mean American materialism), but to show kindness to individual Americans, to abstain from luxuries, to work hard and to sustain the national honor.

The Students' Union proclaimed the day a "Dry" Day in order to demonstrate the earnestness and depth of Japan's sentiments against exclusion.

The comments in this morning's newspapers counsel proper control of sentiments.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 1.—At noon today a Japanese, who at present has not been identified, entered the American Embassy compound, climbed the flag pole and cut down the flag. He succeeded in escaping before the police arrived. The compound, where the Embassy stood before September 1, 1923, has since the earthquake been a camp for a detachment of U.S. Marines, all of whom with the exception of three recently left Japan. The remaining Amer-

DAVTIAN TO BE SOVIET DELEGATE AT CONFERENCE

Will Suceed Karakhan At Formal Meeting

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, June 30.—It is reported in reliable quarters that M. Davtian will be appointed by the Soviet Government as its official delegate to the formal Russo-Chinese conference and that M. Rakichin, now in Harbin, may perhaps participate in the conference in question. M. Karakhan, who has no power of attorney to represent the Soviet Government at the formal conference, announces that he will return to Moscow as soon as the Russo-Japanese conference at Peking is completed.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, July 1.—As a result of discussion at today's meeting of the Diplomatic Body with regard to the second demand by the Waichiaopu for the transfer of the Russian Legation here, it has been decided that the Doyen of the Diplomatic Body will draft a reply and forward it to the Waichiaopu. It is reliably reported in this connection that while the Diplomatic Body has no objection to the transfer of the Russian Legation, its contention is that the demand for the transfer shall be made by an officially recognised Russian delegate after going through legal procedure.

Hankow, June 30.—It is said that the N.K.K. steamer, Iyang Maru, which on the 26th instant ran aground at a point near Weihsien, will be rescued as pumping work is progressing quite satisfactorily.

MISSIONARY IS MURDERED BY BANDITS IN HAINAN

Rev. George D. Byers Killed At Kachek

OTHERS SAFE

U. S. Gunboat Sacramento Ordered To Scene

The Rev. George D. Byers, of the American Presbyterian Mission (North) at Kachek, Hainan Island, has been murdered by bandits, according to a message received by the mission headquarters here yesterday morning. All of the other missionaries on the island, including Mr. Byers' wife and four children, are safe, the message says. No details of the outrage have been received as yet.

Hainan Island is off the southern coast of Kwangtung and is nominally under control of the Canton government. Because of the wars in the South, the island has been in a disorderly state for some years, but this is the first instance of an attack on a foreigner. The Presbyterian Mission is the only one to maintain a field force on Hainan. In addition to Mr. Byers, who had been stationed on Hainan Island since 1906, this force included Mr. and Mrs. N. Bercovitz, Miss M. M. Moninger, and Miss McCreery. Several other members of the mission are on furlough at the present time.

The message to the mission headquarters here was filed from Hongkong. It was explained that the cable service between Hainan Island and Hongkong is very poor and that messages are usually mailed from Hainan to Hongkong and cabled from there. It is probable therefore that the murder occurred two or three days ago. The message, which was sent by Miss Moninger reads:

"Bandits Kill Byers Kachek Family Bercovitz, Moninger, McCreery Safe Have Cabled Board Moninger."

Immediately upon receipt of the message, the mission headquarters here notified United States Minister Jacob Gould Schurmann and United States Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham.

Rev. Byers' home was in Bandon, Oregon. He first came to China in 1906 for the American Presbyterian Mission (North) and was almost immediately sent to Hainan Island where he has been stationed ever since. The Mission has three stations on Hainan Island, at Kachek, Kiungchow and Nodoa, at all of which the Rev. Byers' served at various times. Rev. Byers returned from furlough on October 15, 1922 and resumed his work at Kachek.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, June 30.—The United States gunboat Sacramento has been ordered to leave Hongkong and proceed to Hoihow (Hainan) to investigate the murder of the American Missionary, Mr. G. D. Byers.

Chinese Flag On Russ Police Station

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, July 1.—The Chinese flag was hoisted this morning over the Russian police station, but is not yet flying over the other municipal buildings.

Funds Needs For 4th Celebration

The committee having arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration in charge is seriously handicapped this year by lack of funds, as contributions have not been coming in as rapidly as was expected. The committeemen urge that contributions be forwarded immediately to the Secretary, American Chamber of Commerce, Robert Dollar building.

'Venus' Goes Back To Main Street

CONSTANCE McDERMOTT & GAIL ERWIN

Eighteen-year-old Constance McDermott has gone back to Main street, in Nelson, Minn., sadder, but wiser. She went to Chicago to make her fortune, and ended by posing in the nude in life classes in Chi-Gail Edwin, "Adonis" of the same art colony, who posed in the Winter and was a life guard in the Summer. Jilted by him, she alleged, she swallowed poison and fell in a faint while posing before an art class. Physicians saved her life, and she went back home to forget forever the life of "Bohemia."

CONSTABLE SLAIN, ONE IS WOUNDED, BY ARMED THUGS

Daring Hold-Up On Nanking Road Has Tragic Sequel

A Chinese police constable was shot and killed and another was badly wounded by an armed robber following a sensational hold-up on Nanking Road, almost in the heart of the business district, Monday evening.

The robbery occurred shortly before 8.30 p.m. at 141 Nanking Road, a dry goods shop. Three men entered the place and two of them immediately walked behind the counter, where ten men were on duty, while several customers were in the front of the shop. The exhibition of pistols was enough to intimidate the inmates and the cashier handed over $50 in silver, after which the robbers left. Two proceeded along Nanking Road while the third went south in Chili Road. The latter was followed by a coolie from the shop who approached the first policeman he met and pointed out the man ahead as an armed robber. The policeman, Constable 1103, took up the trail and was in the act of unslinging his carbine when the thug noticed him and fired. The first shot went through the carbine strap and pierced the policeman's shoulder. A second shot struck the C.P.C's right forearm and he fell, but managed to get out his whistle and sound the alarm.

Hearing the shots and the whistle, C.P.C. 770, who was on patrol duty and unarmed, dashed up. The robber, at short range, started firing and bullets struck the constable in the abdomen and right side. Another C.P.C. who was attracted by the shots came along and fired twice at the fleeing robber but missed and the man disappeared. Constable 770 was taken to Shantung Road Hospital but died within a short time. The other wounded policeman was taken to the Police Hospital and is said not to be in a serious condition.

Consulate Receives Income Tax Blanks

The American Consulate-General has received a new supply of American income tax blanks, which may be secured upon application.

ARMED ROBBERS MAKE TWO BOLD DAYLIGHT RAIDS

Get Away With $2,000 In Western District

Two bold daylight armed robberies were perpetrated in the Settlement yesterday, the robbers getting away with about $2,000 in cash and jewelry, and in one instance using a motor car to make their escape.

The first of the robberies occurred at about 10 a.m. when three armed men entered a dwelling house on Avenue Road, held up the inmates and went away without interference after having collected about $1,000 in money and jewelry.

Of even more sensational nature was the second foray, which took place at about 2:30 p.m. in the Sheng Tah Weaving Factory at 999 Ferry Road. Here the robbers, four in number, forced their way through a back door and got into the accountant's office. Presenting revolvers they forced the accountant to open the safe and got between $800 and $1,000 in currency. No shots were fired and the quartet made off in an awaiting motor car. Search is being made for the car and arrests are expected.

McADOO LEADS IN BALLOTING, BUT IS FAR SHORT OF WINNING VOTE

Democrats Trying To Name Candidate; McAdoo And Smith Lead, But Both Are Far Short Of Necessary Two Thirds Vote; "Dark Horse" May Win

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, June 30.—The Democratic Convention today will begin balloting for the Presidential nomination. Governor Smith and Mr. McAdoo are still the leading champions. Senator Ralston and ex-Ambassador Davis continue on the trail, awaiting a possible deadlock that would swing the Convention in their direction. Political experts predict a long and fierce battle. Sixteen candidates have been submitted for nomination, but the delegates are not confined to voting for these and may vote for anybody they consider deserving.

Later.—Almost immediately on assembling the Democratic Convention started the roll-call of the States in the first ballot for the Presidential nominee.

The official figures for the first ballot were as follows:

Mr. McAdoo 431½ votes and Governor Smith 240½ votes.

No candidate received the necessary two-thirds majority.

The remainder of the votes were scattered among eighteen other candidates.

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, June 30.—The Democratic Convention adjourned after the 16th ballot without nominating a candidate.

Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith picked up additional votes in the next few ballots, but not enough to indicate any general abandonment of their" favorite sons" by the delegates.

Mr. McAdoo in the fifth ballot secured 443 votes and Governor Smith 261. Louisiana cast its entire 20 votes in favor of Ex-Ambassador Davis in the seventh ballot.

In the ninth ballot Mr. McAdoo secured 444 votes, Governor Smith 278 and Mr. Davis 63½, though he started with a few West Virginian votes only.

The Convention has now gone into recess.

(Later).—When the Convention resumed, the figures in the tenth ballot were: Mr. McAdoo 471 votes and Governor Smith 299.

BLACK LEOPARD IS GAME SOUGHT BY FRANK BUCK

Famous Animal Collector Again Here On Way To Tropics

Pheasants, deer, and other species of birds that in time will restore the wild bird life of Hawaii, elephants, black leopards, lions, tigers, and other wild animals of the tropic regions will be collected by Mr. Frank A. Buck, noted American naturalist and collector of wild animal specimens, who is in Shanghai aboard the steamer President Cleveland en route to Singapore to garner a new collection of animals and birds for transportation to America.

Mr. Buck will leave Shanghai aboard the Cleveland today for Hongkong, where he will transship for Singapore. He will probably return en route to America in three or four months with his animal collection.

One of the chief objects of Mr. Buck's present trip to the Straits is to obtain eight black leopards which he has been asked to get for exhibition purposes in America. The leopards are destined for the Barnes Circus, which has its headquarters at Los Angeles.

"No leopards are good leopards," says Mr. Buck, "and black leopards are probably the worst of the lot. I warned them all about it, but the Barnes circus is intent on having a specialty animal act in which only black leopards will appear. So they shall have them."

The trainer of this particular circus, Mr. Buck says, is quite confident of his ability to tame even a black leopard.

"He maintains", Mr. Buck says, "that no matter how wild an animal is, he can tame it within three months. And I really believe him. On the occasion of my last trip to the Orient, I took back with me several full-grown tigers, beasts so wild that the ordinary person scarcely dared to approach their cage, for as soon as anyone neared them at all they would leap to the bars and tear at them in the most ferocious manner possible. Three months later, the trainer was entering their cage and pulling their whiskers, and they didn't seem to mind it a bit."

In addition to the orders for eight black leopards, Mr. Buck has commissions from many circuses and zoos throughout the United States. For some years past he has been buying birds for the game commission of the Hawaiian territorial government, and on this trip he will make a particular effort to pick up a big collection of pheasants and other wild birds for Hawaii: where the wild bird life has become practically extinct.

The elephants which he will take back to America are destined for the zoo at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. He will also obtain a big collection of snakes of various varieties for exhibition purposes.

MACLAREN DUE IN FOOCHOW TODAY, HERE TOMORROW

British Flier To Leave H'kong This Morning; Americans Advance

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 1.—Squadron-Leader Maclaren at present plans to leave for Foochow at six o'clock on Wednesday morning, whence, weather permitting, he will leave for Shanghai almost immediately. If the weather conditions are bad, he will stay a day at Foochow.

(Reuter's American Service)

Calcutta, July 1.—The American fliers have left for Allahabad.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 1.—The Hongkong Club today entertained Squadron-Leader MacLaren and Captain d'Oisy to luncheon.

Squadron-Leader MacLaren, in a speech, eulogised Captain d'Oisy's flight as the most wonderful the world had ever known. Captain d'Oisy, replying, recalled Alcock's flight across the Atlantic as the most wonderful. He wished Squadron-Leader MacLaren a safe journey home.

FALL, SINCLAIR AND DOHENY ARE INDICTED IN U.S.

Oil Principals Must Answer Criminal Charges

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 30.—The Grand Jury has returned criminal indictments in the cases of ex-Secretary Fall and Messrs. Sinclair and Doheny, whom the Government are prosecuting in connection with the oil lease scandals. Mr. Doheny, Jr., is also indicted. All four are charged with conspiring to defraud, while ex-Secretary Fall is charged with accepting a bribe of $10,000 for using his official influence on behalf of Mr. Doheny in connection with the Californian leases and the Dohenys are charged with bribing him to take unlawful action.

France And U. S. Sign Liquor Pact

Washington, June 30.—A French-American liquor treaty, similar to the Anglo-American treaty, has been signed.

ANDREWS HERE AGAIN, HOPES TO MAKE NEW FINDS

Discoverer Of Dinosaur Eggs On New Trip; Other Arrivals

With additional funds received from the sale of 10,000,000 old dinosaur eggs which he found in Mongolia last year Mr. Roy Chapman Andrew, leader of the Third Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History returned to China on the President Cleveland from San Francisco yesterday.

Mr. Andrews, following his explorations in the wilds of Mongolia last year searching for the ancient remains of the 'missing link' and other evidences of 'the first man,' who is believed to have made his home in that region in ages gone by, went to the United States with the relics he had unearthed, including a dozen dinosaur eggs. While in the United States he delivered a series of lectures before various educational organisations and college and schools, and sold the petrified eggs for $60,000 gold to museums and universities. The work of the expedition, supported by the American Museum of Natural History, will be considerably enlarged as a result of the lucky find.

Mr. Andrews is en route to Peking, which he makes his headquarters for his pilgrimages into the hinterlands in search of the story of mankind, to rejoin Mrs. Andrews before starting out on the next expedition.

Others who arrived on the Cleveland were:

Miss Dorothy Schurman, daughter of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American Minister to Peking, and Mrs. Schurman, who is returning to Peking after a visit in the United States. She is accompanied by her cousin, Miss Beatrice Schurman.

Mrs. Howard, wife of Mr. B. C. Howard, formerly manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, who will visit in Shanghai.

Miss Barbara Atkinson, daughter of Mr. C. W. Atkinson, Manager of the Standard Oil Company here, came from the United States for a visit with her parents.

Mr. Leonard Everett, Oriental Manager for Struthers and Barry, and his family, who returned to Shanghai after an extended visit in the United States.

Mr. Eugene Charles Staudt, a mechanical engineer, who has come here to join the staff of Sulzer Brothers.

Mr. William Boylan, Lloyds Surveyor, and Mrs. Boylan, who returned to Shanghai from a visit.

Mr. B. M. Smith of the Standard Oil Company of Pittsfield, Mass., accompanied by Mrs. Smith, who came on a business trip.

Other passengers on the Cleveland included Mrs. Ralph H. Handy and Miss Miriam Handy, wife and daughter of the Vice-President of the Arrow Oil Company, who are en route to Manila; Mr. Frank P. Thornton, Secretary-Treasurer of the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Company en route to Manila; Justice George A. Malcolm of the Philippines Supreme Court, en route to Manila; Mr. A. R. Tuhoy of the Manila Bulletin and his family, returning to the Islands; Commander and Mrs. Carlos Bean, Commander and Mrs. E. R. Norton, Lieut.-Commander and Mrs. Francis T. Chew, Lieut.-Commander and Mrs. Eugene M. Woodson, Lieut.-Commander Elliott Buckmaster, Lieut.-Commander and Mrs. R. J. Guilder, all of the United States Navy en route to Manila; Mrs. Mann, wife of Commander R. R. Mann, U. S. N., en route to Manila; Mr. James Kewley, chemical engineer with the Shell Oil Company; Mr. F. D. Stephens, Manila manager for Getz Bros.; and Mrs. O. F. Bishop, en route to Hongkong to join her husband who is manager of several United States Rubber Company plantations.

Tagore Gets Big Welcome At H'kong

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 1.—Dr. Rabindranath Tagore was given an enthusiastic reception on his arrival here today by the Indian community who presented him with a eulogistic address and 5,000 rupees.

This evening Dr. Tagore addressed a large gathering, including the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Hongkong, at the Confucian Club. Dr. Tagore will leave for Singapore tomorrow.

DID JUDGES ERR IN KENTUCKY DERBY.

BLACK GOLD WINS. MRS. R. M. HOOTS.

Japanese Meet All Over Country To Voice Protest

icans did not witness the incident, which was immediately reported to the American Charge d'Affaires who called on Baron Shidehara, the Foreign Minister. The police are carrying on investigations.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Baron Shidehara expressed to the American Charge d'Affaires his deepest regrets over the incident, saying: "I hope no American will think that this represents the sentiment of any thinking Japanese." Most vigorous measures are being taken to apprehend the offender.

The incident was the subject of interpellation in the Lower House this evening when the Home Minister promised stricter control of demonstrations against America.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, July 1.—The House of Peers today unanimously passed the following resolution:

The House of Peers, taking the view that the Japanese exclusion clause in the United States' new Immigration law is absolutely contrary to the general rule of justice and fairness and is detrimental to the friendship that has long existed between the two countries, deeply regrets at the enactment of the clause in question.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, July 1.—Speaking at today's sitting of the Imperial Diet, Baron Shidehara, Minister of Foreign Affairs, stated that the Japanese Government's diplomacy was based entirely upon righteousness with humanity and peace in view and that its policy should never be altered by the change of the Cabinet. With reference to America's new immigration law, the Russo-Japanese negotiations, and the general situation in China, Baron Shidehara said:

"In view of the fact that the Japanese Government having thoroughly restricted the immigration of Japanese laborers to the United States in accordance with the Gentlemen's Agreement, the rate of increase in the number of Japanese emigrants to that country was almost too insignificant to give rise to an issue, the enactment by the United States Government of the Japanese exclusion clause in the new Immigration Bill is to be greatly regretted.

"Though it is alleged that the said Japanese exclusion clause has been enacted not because the Japanese people are regarded as an inferior race, but because they lack in assimilatory characteristics, it must be pointed out that this allegation has not been proved by any conclusive fact whatever. It is nothing but a dogmatic argument. As a matter of course, Japan has not the least intention to argue with another Power about the latter's sovereign rights as regards the restriction of emigrants, but this does not testify to the conclusion that the Japanese exclusion clause is not incompatible with the provisions in the American-Japanese Treaty. The said clause, as unanimously denounced by the President, the Secretary of State and public opinion in that country, is inconsistent with the sense of justice and impartiality, and is, we are convinced, contrary to the universal principle of international courtesy.

"It is for this reason that the Imperial Government of Japan is still refraining from taking the view that the immigration issue has been brought to an end. So long as our just and reasonable assertion is not to be accepted, we are determined to keep up our protest.

"As for the Russian question, I sincerely hope that the Russian people will speedily effect the pacific development of their country, enduring all hardships that have befallen them since the Revolution, especially in view of the fact that Japan and Russia have their destinies to approach each other as friendly neighboring countries taken from their geographical and economic points of view.

"The Japanese Government does not find itself in a position to make any comments upon the internal affairs of Soviet Russia, but it is necessary for the Governments of the two countries clearly to settle beforehand various important problems pending between the two countries, or otherwise it is feared that there will arise some unpleasant complications even after the restoration of their diplomatic relations.

"The present Japanese Cabinet is fully determined to continue the Russo-Japanese negotiations at Peking and to endeavor to bring about a result satisfactory to both sides. As to the concrete policy to be adopted towards the said negotiations, I am not yet in a position to express my views at this juncture when negotiations are still under way.

"As to the Chinese question, it is a self-evident truth that the two countries have need to have and maintain a thorough mutual understanding, taking the fact into consideration that they have from the beginning had very close relations, political, economic, and cultural. Japan earnestly desires that the political situation in China will be settled as soon as possible. Naturally, it is not an easy job for China to carry through improvements in administration over all branches and so we are awaiting and praying for the success of the Chinese people with sympathy, endurance, and hope but are also ready to offer friendly co-operation if required by the Chinese people.

"It is to be emphasised that Japan will not take any such actions as to disregard China's national position and we believe that China will do the same towards our country. Needless to say, Japan intends to effect economic co-operation with China under the principle of equal opportunity in that country. To that end, we are endeavoring to accomplish our object by means such as to benefit the two countries equally.

"I feel certain that the fair and just policy of the Japanese Government will without doubt be recognised by the Chinese people. The policy towards China provided by the Washington Conference, though it has not yet begun to take effect owing to the fact there are some Powers still failing to ratify the Washington Agreement, is entirely consistent with the one which is about to be taken by the Japanese Government."

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 1.—The Lower House today unanimously passed a resolution recording its opposition against the discriminatory nature of the American Immigration Act as violation of the principles of justice and international equality and impairing the long friendship between America and Japan. A somewhat similar motion was also unanimously passed by the House of Peers. The speeches in both Houses were couched in firm but moderate language. The belief was expressed that the action of Congress could be remedied. In the meantime Baron Shidehara reassured the House that the Government was determined to maintain a stand against the legislation.

Indian Congress Condemns Murders

(Reuter's Service)

Ahmedabad, June 30.—The resolution, recently adopted by the Bengal Provincial Conference paying homage to Gopi Nath Saha, who was hanged for murdering Mr. Ernest Day, a prominent Calcutta merchant, came up for discussion at the All-India Congress Committee, which, on a motion by Mr. Gandhi, passed a resolution regretting the murder of Mr. Day and condemning all political murders as inconsistent with non-violent non-co-operation and retarding progress forwards Swaraj.

Mr. C. R. Das proposed an amendment urging the adoption of the resolution passed by the Bengal Provincial Conference. The amendment was rejected by 78 votes to 70 and Mr. Gandhi's resolution was carried.

Daily Delivery of The China Press

To Our Regular Subscribers

We have done all we could to deliver THE CHINA PRESS at your door in time for you to read it in bed before breakfast, if you wish; but to produce the highest efficiency and most regular service we feel that your co-operation is needed.

Occasionally one of our delivery coolies is forgetful or slack, and someone's morning paper is missing that day; or it is thrown down in the garden and spoilt by the rain. Whenever such cases are reported we take immediate steps to rectify the error and to discourage the offender from repeating it. But some cases, we feel sure, remain unreported, and we are asking you, if you have any cause for complaint, to fill up the printed form below and send it along to the Business Manager.

CHILEANS HERE MUST SUBMIT TO CHINESE CONTROL

Sino-Chilean Treaty Stipulations Defined By Dr. Koo In Note

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 1.—The Dean of the Diplomatic Corps, replying to the Waichiaopu on June 16 with regard to the Chilean Consul's claim for jurisdiction in Shanghai, acknowledged receipt of Dr. Wellington Koo's Note of May 26 which called attention to the fact that in the Sino-Chilean Treaty there was no clause granting Chilean Consuls in China the right of jurisdiction and that at the time of granting the Chilean Consul an exequatur the Waichiaopu expressly pointed out that he did not enjoy such right. Your Excellency, therefore, requests me to write to the Senior Consul at Shanghai asking him to withdraw the instructions to the Registrar of the Mixed Court to the effect that persons claiming Chilean nationality should in the case of their arrest be handed over to the Chilean Consul. My colleagues desire me to reply as follows: The instruction given by the Senior Consul at Shanghai to the Registrar of the Mixed Court on April 17, to which you refer, did not imply and was not intended to imply that the Consular Body at Shanghai favor the Chilean Consul's contention that he possesses the right of consular jurisdiction. However, he had written a letter to the Consular Body emphatically declaring that the Sino-Chilean Treaty confers this right on him. It is evident that it is not for the Consular Body to set themselves up as an international court to give decision to a question of interpretation of a treaty concluded between the two Republics of China and Chili nor could the Diplomatic Corps assume such an attitude. This question, as Your Excellency remarks, has to be dealt with and solved exclusively by the two Governments concerned. It is equally evident that the Consular Body at Shanghai cannot pass judgment upon a person who claims to a certain nationality. In view of the Chilean Consul's emphatic declaration that he possesses the right of Consular jurisdiction, the Consular Body had no other course open to them but to instruct that any individual arrested in Shanghai claiming Chilean nationality should be brought before the Chilean consular officer. This leaves the Chinese authorities free and in fact gives them an opportunity to address themselves immediately to the said consular officer and claim that the person concerned should be handed over to them for trial. It is needless for me to add that in such a case neither the Consular Body at Shanghai nor the Diplomatic Corps would or could interfere as it would be a case which only concern the Chinese and Chilean Governments. It seems, however, to my colleagues, and they trust that Your Excellency concur with their point of view, that so long as the Chilean Consul at Shanghai maintains his note in which he assures the Consular Body that he has the right of jurisdiction granted him by the Treaty the said Consular Body cannot act otherwise than they have done." The Note is signed by M. Oudendijk.

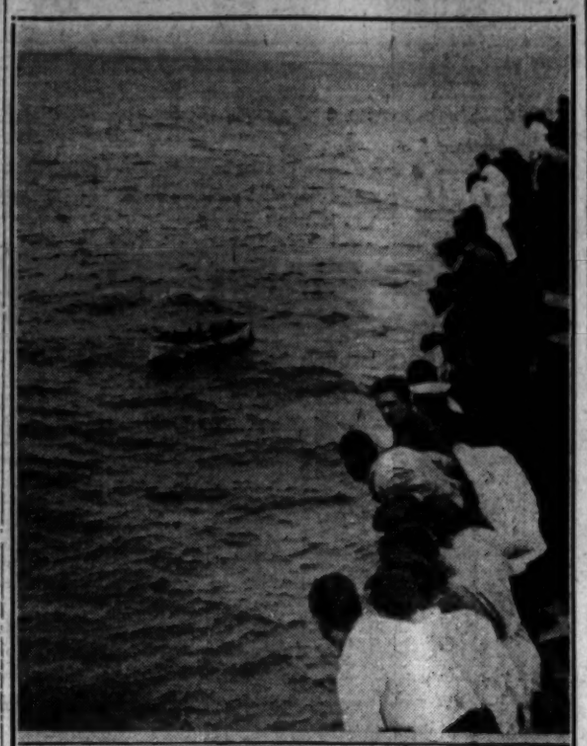
WHY LINER BERENGARIA WAS LATE.



RESCUE AT SEA.

The liner Berengaria, one of the greatest afloat, was several hours late on its last trip into New York because it went far out of its way to put over a small boat to the steamer Major Wheeler and take off Leon Anderson, of the Wheeler's crew, whose jaw was fractured when a pump blew up in the engine room. The Wheeler had no doctor aboard.

British Premier Deplores Egypt's Stand In Sudan

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, June 30.—The Chamber of Deputies unanimously passed a resolution thanking King Fuad for refusing to accept the resignation of the Premier, Zaghlul Pasha.

It is understood that Zaghlul Pasha, conforming to the wishes of King Fuad, will not resign the Premiership. The decision was reached after an all-night meeting, where apparently the view was taken that the resignation of the Premier was inadvisable in the present critical political situation.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 30.—Regret at the attitude of the Egyptian Government and Parliament over the question of the Sudan was expressed by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald in the House of Commons today.

He said that the statements in the Egyptian Parliament and the action taken to create trouble in the Sudan could only be explained as an attempt to force his hand and to deprive Zaghlul Pasha of liberty of negotiation.

In view of what had happened, it was necessary for Mr. Macdonald to make clear to all concerned that he did not believe that the House of Commons would accept any arrangement which would break our pledges to the Sudan (cheers) or jeopardise the present administration and development of that country. He still trusted that those responsible for the government of both countries would refuse to countenance impossible demands which would destroy the prospect of settlement.

No Notice Of Soviet Delegate's Peking Promise

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 30.—In the House of Commons this evening, questioned with regard to the reported statement of M. Karakhan, the Soviet Envoy to China, promising that Russia would support any steps by China to abolish the special treaty rights of Britain and other Powers, Mr. MacDonald said that it had not been considered necessary to take notice of it. The attitude of the Government in support of the existing treaty rights in China remained unchanged.

Government Is Again Beaten In Commons Ballot

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 30.—In the House of Commons the Government were defeated on a minor point in the Finance Bill this evening by 220 votes to 165, but it is not likely to lead to serious consequences. This is the seventh defeat since they came into office.

Mr. Baldwin's attempt to secure an adjournment of the discussion until they knew whether the Government would accept the division or not was subsequently defeated by 237 votes to 169. The Liberals, who had previously helped to carry the Conservative amendment, voted with the Ministerialists on the adjournment motion.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 30.—Mr. Lloyd George, speaking at a monster meeting of 50,000 Liberals, criticised the diplomacy of the Labor Government, particularly the conversations at the Chequers. Mr. J. R. Clynes, replying to Mr. Lloyd George's speech, declared that the influence of British policy on other countries was excellent.

Comparison

It is obvious that where claims are made, comparison is inevitable. Comparison of the NEW Columbia Grafonola with ordinary gramophones has given it a place in music that no other gramophone has attained in so short a space of time. Comparison of the "NEW PROCESS" Records (without Scratch) with ordinary records reveals all the deficiencies of the latter.

To hear either one is to enjoy but one-half of a great achievement. To hear them in combination is to experience the sensation of a new experience. But to hear them in comparison with ordinary gramophones is to understand the enthusiasm of master musicians and music-lovers alike.

Another slight after-quake was felt in Tokio and vicinity at 7:30 o'clock on June 24, lasting about five minutes. The shock was very feeble and was strong enough for only 30 seconds to be felt by human beings. The center of the disturbance was estimated to be about 80 kilometers south-east of Tokio, according to the Central Observatory report. It was slightly more severe in Yokohama than in Tokio. Approximately 8,500 after-quakes have been recorded by the seismograph since September 1 and there will be still more, all feeble, the experts say.

Several children were hurt when 2,000 panicky students at the Hiratsuka primary school in Kanagawa prefecture, Japan, rushed out of the school building. They mistook the booming of guns from a warship for an earthquake. The warship was having target practice in Tokio Bay. Most of the injured suffered cuts and bruises when they leaped through the windows. The school children were not alone in making the mistake. Most of the inhabitants of Hiratsuka rushed into the streets at the first concussion caused by the explosions. There were no injuries among the townspeople, however.

A Chung Mei News Agency message dated Peking, June 28, states:—What purported to be a dispatch from Fengtien was published in the Chinese papers today giving the details of an attempted assassination of Major-General Chang Hsueh-liang, son of Marshal Chang Tso-lin. This was supposed to have taken place several days ago at the hands of one of his soldiers, who, after his failure, made good his escape. The motive given is that the soldier was hired for the deed by the exchange shop men, who were mad at the order of the Marshal forcing them to suspend business.

Kenny McKelvie Wins The S'hai Rifle Association's 'All—Comers', Scores 313

Annual Event Contested Under Good Weather Conditions, With Thirty-Four Competitors; J. R. Main Finishes In Second Place

The annual all-comers championship (any rifle) of the Shanghai Rifle association, fired on Sunday and Monday, was won by "Kenny" McKelvie, with J. R. Main winner of the first stage and the first and second stage combined. The weather held fairly good for the event, and of the thirtynine original entries thirtyfour competed.

The winner of the initial stage and special prize turned in the fine score of 97 L. C. Caldwell had the same score but lost in the count, followed by C. G. Hoh and A. H. Swan with 96 each and D. W. Kan with 95.

In the second stage C. W. Glover made a fine score of 91, followed by C. Bedoni, A. L. Mottu and Y. C. Waung with 90 each. Adding this score with those of first stage, J. R. Main was leading with 187, followed by Caldwell with 183, Y. C. Waung, C. W. Glover, W. C. Lancaster, A. H. Swan and D. W. Kan with 182 each.

In the third stage (900 & 1000 yds.) McKelvie put up an excellent score of 135, followed by T. S. Parry with 129, D. W. Kan with 128, A. H. Swan with 126 and F. W. Snape with 125. J. R. Main who was leading at 1000 yds. range, went to pieces, scoring 38 points.

Adding the scores with those of two stages combined, McKelvie, who was in the 12th place, won the honor with 313. D. W. Kan who was 7th position came in second with 310 and T. S. Parry who was 10th position came in a very close third with 309.

Mr. McKelvie is to be congratulated for his excellent performance and for his well deserved win. He also made a fine record in the recent Association annual rifle meeting in which he won the Class Grand Aggregate, Class Bulls-eye Prize and many other prizes. Following are the results.

HOBBS, BRITISH CRICKETER, SETS BATTING RECORD

Gets 211 Against South Africa, Best In Test Game Since 1884

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 30.—The Second Test Match was resumed today in cool weather before 12,000 spectators. The sky was overcast. The wicket was good.

Hobbs and Sutcliffe, continuing from overnight, opened quietly. It was 33 minutes before the 100 went up. After this there was bright batting, particularly by Hobbs, who was at the top of his form and gave a sparkling display. He reached his century in 140 minutes, while Sutcliffe reached his in 163 minutes. At the lunch interval Hobbs' score was 114 and Sutcliffe's 102. The total of 228 for 0 wicket is a record for a first wicket partnership against Africa in Tests, beating Hobbs' and Rhodes' 211 at Capetown in 1909.

Sutcliffe was bowled when the score stood at 268. His innings of 122 took 197 minutes, and was characterised by hard, clean cutting. He hit eleven 4s. Hobbs was out with the score at 410 for 2 wickets through the only weak stroke in his innings of 211, which equalled the record highest score in any Test Match, made by Murdoch in 1884. He batted for 275 minutes, and hit fifteen 4s. and six 3s.

At the tea interval the score was 451 for 2 wickets, Woolley, who batted aggressively, being 86 not out and Hendren 18 not out. The crowd had meanwhile increased to 16,000.

England declared at 5.23 with 531 runs for 2 wickets. The innings lasted 6 hours and 35 minutes. Woolley took 133 minutes to make his score of 134 not out. He gave an exhibition of vigorous driving, and punished the tired bowling mercilessly, hitting twenty 4s. Hendren, who made 50 not out, batted for 58 minutes and hit seven 4s.

The African batsmen came out at 5.40. After half an hour, with the score at 15 for 0 wicket, the game was interrupted for quarter of an hour owing to bad light. It was resumed at 6.25. One over was bowled, and then stumps were drawn. The score stood at 19 for 0 wicket, Deane having made 12 and Commaille 5.

LENGLEN NEAR DEFEAT AT HANDS OF BRITISH GIRL

Miss Ryan Takes Second Set, And Seemed Winner At Times

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Wimbledon, June 30.—The weather was cool and windy and the sky overcast for the resumption of Lawn Tennis Championships today. There were 15,000 spectators.

In the first match on the Center Court the brilliant and agile French player, Lacoste, defeated the hard-hitting Belgian, Washer, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 in the fifth round and thus enters the semi-final.

Today was a Lenglen day. The champion had the closest match of her career, when defeating Miss Ryan in the fourth round 6-2, 6-8, 6-4. She lost her first set in England since she won the Championship in 1919. She did not play at her best, but Miss Ryan played the game of her life. There were periods when the defeat of the champion seemed more than a possibility. Miss Ryan made very skilful exploitation of a drop-shot and left Mlle Lenglen nonplussed. It was a great thrill for the crowd to see Mlle Lenglen fighting for her title in the third set.

In other fourth round matches Miss McKane beat the American Mrs. Jessup 6-1, 6-3. Miss Wills beat Mrs. Colegate 6-1, 6-0 and Mrs. Satterthwaite beat Mrs. Shepherd-Barron 6-4, 10-8. Mlle Lenglen, Miss McKane, Miss Wills and Mrs. Satterthwaite now enter the semi-final round.

In the second round of the doubles Williams and Washburn (America) beat J. Hillyard and Greig 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Richards and Hunter (America) beat Okamoto and Hoshiye (Japan) 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

In the third round of the doubles Lycet and Godfree beat the South Africans Richardson and Condon 6-8, 7-9, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3. The brothers Alonso beat Davson and Navrogordato 8-6 6-3, 6-3.

In the second round of the Mixed Doubles Hunter and Miss Scharman beat J. Washer and Mrs. Feilden 8-6, 5-7, 8-6. Woosnam and Mrs. Covell beat Washburn and Miss Goss 4-6, 6-4, 6-1. Richards and Mrs. Jessup beat B. Cameron and Miss Watson 6-3, 6-1.

In the third round Borotra and Mlle Lengien beat R. Poland and Miss Tyrell 6-2, 6-3.

72 DEAD, SCORES HURT IN STORM THAT SWEPT OHIO

Lorain Resembles War Stricken City; Many Heroic Deeds

(Reuter's American Service)

Cleveland, June 30.—Six hundred soldiers are patrolling the streets of Lorain, which after the tornado resembles a war-stricken city after bombardement. The military authorities have established strict control and have ordered all those not on business to keep off the streets. They are calling on many of the citizens to clear up the wreckage.

There were many miraculous escapes from death. A woman, who was asleep, was blown from her bed through the window 50 feet into the yard. She was not injured except for a broken shoulder.

The Central High School has been transformed into a mortuary and is surrounded by grief-stricken families. The most pitiful scenes occured in the class-rooms, which are filled with dead, including a number of children.

There were many acts of heroism and self-sacrifice. One young man worked feverishly throughout the night helping the injured. He saw at dawn a motorcar in a demolished street and rushed to the rescue. He was horrified to find his parents dead beneath the wreckage.

Some survivors knelt and prayed on he ruins, while others walked aimlessly in the streets crying and groaning.

The whole scene is like a night-mare.

Later.—Hitherto the known casualties in Lorain, Sandusky and Cleveland total 72 dead and many hundreds injured.

ASK CONSTABLE TO ASSIST IN EXTORTION PLAN

An astonishing attempt by Chinese to induce a foreign police officer to figure in an extortion scheme was described in the Mixed Court before Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Sung yesterday when two men were charged.

Police Constable Salt of Louza Station testified that Saturday night he met the first accused on Nanking Road, the latter inviting him to go to an opium den where they could extort money from the proprietress. The Constable put the man off and reported to the station. Under instructions he met the accused again next day and accompanied him to an address on Canton Road. Here the accused, with the second accused, who was picked up en route, searched the place and demanded $200. The woman said she did not have the money and the demand was reduced to $100. The Inspector in charge and other officers arrived at this time and the two men and the woman were taken into custody.

The men were sentenced to six months' imprisonment each and the woman was fined $50 for running the den.

Consul At Dutch City Recalled

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 28.—The Waichiaopu has issued an order recalling Mr. Hsu Nieh-chien (Consul at Amsterdam) and appointing Mr. Lu Chun, to be Acting Consul at Amsterdam. Mr. Li Tien-chang, has been appointed Chancellor in charge of the 6th section of the Political Department of the Waichiaopu in succession to Mr. Lu Chun.

Another Foreign Office order recalls Mr. Chen Hung-hsin (Consul at Trieste) and appoints to that post Mr. Chen Yi-fu, formerly Consul at Batung, Dutch East Indies. A third order recalls Mr. Pi Wen-chi for service with the Waichiaopu and appoints Mr. Fu Yang-hsien Acting Consul at Shuangchengtze. The post of Chief of the Passport Section of the Foreign Office, vacated by Mr. Fu, will be filled by Mr. Yang En-ken.

Motor Car Is Used In Drug Smuggling

An opium smuggling expedition, with a surreptitiously borrowed motor car wearing changed number plates figuring prominently in the scheme, was nipped in the bud during the early hours of Monday morning when Police Constable Bell saw a Chinese throw two packets into the car on North Soochow Road. He approached the vehicle and arrested the chauffeur, whereupon the latter's companion leaped into Soochow Creek. The two packets turned out to contain ten pounds and 12 ounces of raw opium.

A watch was kept along the creek and an hour after the first arrest the second man climbed up the bank. He had been hanging onto the side of a boat in the creek.

It developed that the chauffeur had taken the car out without authority—it belonged to a Mr. Kosioka—and a third man, who is being sought, furnished different license number plates.

The chauffeur was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Assessor Bucknell and Magistrate Loh of the Mixed Court yesterday and the second accused, who was alleged to have arranged the deal, was sent to jail for six months.

KIDNAPPING CASE LEADS TO FAMILY PROSECUTION

(China Press Correspondence)

Suchien, Kiangsu, June 27.—A few days ago the city of Pihsien witnessed the closing scene of one chapter in a tragic story which began last fall. The Chen family is the leading family of Chengtsiau, a village in the Pihsien District, near Gwanhu. This village has been remarkably free from acts of robbery and violence, kidnapping, etc. during the past few years when nearly every village in the whole district has suffered. This unusual degree of security has been attributed to the fact that the village itself was free from robbers, so that there was no one to act as spy and lead the other robbers into the village. On one occasion several years ago, one of the villagers disappeared for some days, and upon his return was unable to give any satisfactory explanation of his whereabouts or the object of his wanderings. It seemed pretty certain that he had been in touch with bandits somewhere, so he was executed. After that time, the other villagers stayed at home and minded their own business, and the place was much safer than other villages in the neighborhood.

An old gentleman named Chen, the leading man of the village and one of the wealthiest men of the place, has been afraid of kidnappers for many years. His home was well guarded and barricaded, and he himself carried an automatic pistol on his person. One day last fall, the barricade was opened up to admit carts hauling building material into the yard. A man came along selling peanuts, and stopped by the entrance. Soon another man came and bought a few peanuts, and they began to quarrel about the number which he should receive for his money. Suddenly one of them seized the gentry on guard and held him fast, while his accomplices rushed into the house with pistols, threatening soldiers of the local militia who were guarding the place, and succeeded in capturing Mr. Chen and carrying him off. The plan was a bold one, and was carried out very quietly.

Mr. Chen was held for ransom, and immense sums were demanded, several lots of thousands of dollars. During negotiations for his release, Mr. Chen was hidden in various places, and many weary days and weeks dragged on. The gentleman was more than 70 years old, he was not able to endure such hardships indefinitely. Finally he was concealed in a mill and covered over with earth, to keep the soldiers from [illegible] releasing him. When the mill was opened some time later, he was found dead, from suffocation or from starvation.

After Mr. Chen's death, some bandits were captured and questioned. Of course this means that they were tortured, as that is the Chinese way of extracting information from prisoners. Some of the robbers "bit" a cousin of the dead man; that is, the robbers named him as an accomplice in the crime. In the court-room slang of North Kiangsu, to tell on an accomplice is to "bite" him. The Mr. Chen who was thus bitten was a distant cousin of the deceased, one generation younger. He lived in the same village, and was the official head man of the village, a sort of justice of the peace. He had allowed the robbers to come into his home, he had given them information and helped them to make their plans, and had received a large sum of money for his share of the spoils.

The younger Chen was arrested, and was forced to admit his guilt. He is said to have spent his entire fortune, including land, in fighting the case. It is reported that he gave the Pihsien magistrate a present of $3,000. Meanwhile, the sons of the deceased were also spending money freely in the places where it would accomplish the best results. Charges and counter-charges were made in the so called courts of various cities, Tsingkiangpu, Hsuchowfu, and Nanking. A commissioner was sent from Nanking to investigate. The magistrate was accused of accepting bribes, a remarkable accusation to be brought against a Chinese magistrate. At last the case was decided, and the younger Chen, the justice of the peace, was shot. It is safe to say that a great many of the head men of villages in this part of the province deserve the same fate, as most of them are in agreement with bands of robbers.

"Alice Adams"
STARRING
FLORENCE VIDOR
Written for every girl who craves luxury. Taken from the everyday life of millions of American misses. Heart-interesting because of its vivid realism. Entertaining because everybody knows an Alice Adams.
A faithful adaptation of Booth Tarkington's most successful book, it relates the story of a pleasure-starved daughter and her search for romance and happiness.
Perfectly portrayed by Florence Vidor, who gives the finest performance of her career. Emotional, impulsive, winsomely beautiful and altogether lovable—you can never forget her.
The other parts are perfectly interpreted by Vernon Steel, Claude Gillingwater, Margaret McWade, Harold Goodwin, Thomas Ricketts and Gertrude Astor. Rowland V. Lee director.

OLD BILL'S
Adventures in America
by Bruce Bairnsfather

Those Rushes

"AH!" said the old man in the corner, "that would be before the big rush came." He took out his pipe and blew a cloud of smoke at a marble pillar. (I think he was smoking a haddock—it smelt like it anyway.)

"What rush?" we said, desiring to get in on the ground floor if there was any rushing to be done.

"The gold rush," he replied with an air of superiority. "It would be before your time maybe."

That is the worst of these rushes. Bill and I have always noticed that all rushes have taken place before our times. We had been listening to the old man in the hotel lobby tell us heart-breaking details of the fortunes which came over night, to those who had rushed, in the past. We listened with all due respect to age, but at the same time wondered when another rush would start. Presently, he moved up a couple of rushes and began again.

"And then there was the great oil rush."

"Ah!" we said, with our eyes staring like those ones in the optician's windows, "tell us about that one!"

"Well, there was young Jake McGrow, who cleaned up over five million dollars inside a week. Bert Dumbbell made three million out of one gusher in ten days, and——"

"STOP! STOP!" we said together. "Describe exactly how to rush and estimate for us, good Sir, when the next rush is scheduled to start."

"Well, it's hard to say," he went on, as he slowly began to asphyxiate us with his pipe. "There don't seem much left to rush for, and yet some day, all of a sudden, some new stuff will be wanted and some guy will find out where to dig for it and then—there you are!"

With these words we found that we had completely exhausted his gusher of information, but we came to a few decisions as a result. We went upstairs and thought things over. "Well, there's one thing I do know, Sir," and Bill. "I'm going to be ready for a rush when it comes. I'm going to have a grip all ready packed, a spade and a box to put the millions in. Just think of them fellers who live where the rush is going to, Captain! There they are, sittin' right on the top of a stack of dollars and they don't know it! Never again do I sit anywhere without thinking of how there may be a rush coming just right to that place." He rose from the radiator, regarded it with a critical eye, turned the tap to "off" and sat down again. "As I was sayin', Captain" . . . There came a sharp tap at the door. "Come in!" we said together. The door was locked, so we rose and opened it. A short stout man with a wild look on his face came hurriedly into the room. "Excuse me, gentlemen, but I had this room before you. I only checked out an hour ago and I left something behind. Pardon me a moment!"

We granted the pardon, as he darted across the room to where Old Bill had been sitting.

He went over to the radiator, and from between two folds of the metal at the back produced a pocket-book with a great smile of relief. He stood up and placed it in an inside pocket. "Thank heaven!" he said. "It's all right! Can't think how I forgot it. Put it there for safety, and only remembered it when I was half way to the depot."

"What is it?" said Bill, with an air of sullen suspicion.

"What is it? Why it's $25,000—the payroll for Our Inkless Fountain Pen Factory. Thank you, gentlemen!" He went out and closed the door. . .

"I don't think I'm cut out for rushing, Captain. Here was a rush right here and we've missed it."

Labor Parley Begins Debate Of Proposals

(French Wireless through Reuter's)

Paris, June 30.—A telegram from Geneva states that the International Labor Conference today began the consideration of the reports of its committees. The first question was that of equality of treatment of foreign and national workers who have suffered as a result of accidents during their work. The reporter of the committee, M. Macon, and the Spanish Government delegate, M. Macon) explained the conclusions of the committee, which constitute a new development in the principle of equality of workers formulated in the Peace Treaty. The committee presents a draft resolution, of which the following are the essential conditions:—

1.—Every member of the organisation ratifying the convention pledges itself to grant to nationals of any other ratifying State, who may be victims of accidents while at work or to those who have the right, to it the same treatment as its own nationals.

2.—Equality shall be granted without condition of residence. Particular arrangements will be made with regard to temporary emigrants. A special agreement may provide for the application of an immigration law.

3.—States, having ratified the convention and having no scheme of indemnifications or contract insurance for work accidents, shall introduce legislation on this matter.

Asks Preference For China, India And E. Indies Tea

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 30.—In the House of Commons Committee on the Finance Bill Mr. Herbert Spencer, Liberal Member for Bradford, moved an amendment to apply the Imperial preference rates on tea to China and Dutch East Indian teas, on the ground that China and Holland had treated Britain best in regard to tariffs of all countries in the world.

Mr. P. Snowden, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, replied that he sympathised with the amendment, but regretted that he was unable to accept it for financial reasons. The amendment was withdrawn.

39 Nations At Wembley Parley

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 30.—Thirty-nine countries including Ceylon, China, the Dutch East Indies, Holland, India and Japan are represented at the first World Power Conference at Wembley, which has lasted a fortnight. It was presided over by Earl Derby.

The visiting experts will enlighten their fellow delegates in the potential resources of each country in hydro-electric power, oil, and minerals and on other scientific questions. They will discuss the establishment of a world bureau.

The Prince of Wales made a speech at the opening of the conference, to which Dr. Kamo replied on behalf of Japan.

SEE PROFITS IN RUBBER TRADE FOR GOVERNMENT

Outlook For Future Described As Bright

ESTATES GROW

N. E. I. Developing Planting On Large Scale

The estimated rubber output of the Netherlands East Indies for 1924, according to official reports received in Shanghai, is 1,250 tons, and for 1925, 3,500 tons. The yield in 1923 was 1,709 tons. As to the general rubber situation in the islands, the report declares:

"The present satisfactory prices, the good condition of the estates and the low cost price, give every hope that in the following years large profits will be obtained for the Government."

The N.E.I. Government now has fourteen rubber and one gutta percha estates. The area under cultivation is 9,480 H.A. (one hectare equals 2.471 acres). The production of the gutta percha estate in 1922 was 100,008 K.G. (one K.G. equals 2.204 lbs.). The capital involved in the estates amounts to 11,302,000 guilders.

The Government rubber industry of the N.E.I. has been developed from experimental rubber plantings, started on a large scale about 1900 by the Forestry Department in various forest districts, scattered over the whole of Java. All kinds or rubber-producing trees, Hevea Brasiliensis, Ficus elastica, Castilloa elastica, Manihot Glaziovii, etc., were cultivated. Unfortunately, Ficus elastica was preferred, owing to the opinion, that this indigenous tree would give the best results in the extension of exploitation. For that reason the greater part of the area was planted with Ficus.

ESTATES ENLARGED

In 1911 the total area of these plantings had increased to such an extent that a special organisation had become necessary, the more so, as on the basis of extensive exploitation, no profit could be expected from the business. Consequently, the rubber area was separated from the forest area and given to a special service, and the various plantations combined and gradually enlarged until estates of sufficient size were obtained.

Later on the Government rubber estate Langsa (Sumatra) and the Government gutta percha plantation Tjipetir (Java) were also added to this service. The extensions of the plantations were discontinued temporarily in 1911, owing to the unfavorable aspects of the rubber industry all over the world.

As long as rubber prices were high, the exploitation of Ficus elastica paid fairly well, but after prices had undergone a sharp decline in 1913, the yield being poor and the cost price high, it proved necessary gradually to cut down the whole area of Ficus (a total of 3,035 H.A.) and convert it into Hevea.

The Government has contributed largely to the development of the rubber industry in the N.E.I. many valuable experiments in cultivation, harvesting and preparation having been made in collaboration with the experimental stations. In operation, however, the industry follows the lines of private commercial organisations. For instance, the staff is interested in the financial results.

CABLE FACTOR

Owing to the rubber prices in 1920 and the period immediately following which, unfortunately, occurred just at the time that the largest area came into full bearing, the financial results did not come up to expectations until the present time.

It was the extension of the system of submarine cables which drew attention to the probability of a shortage of gutta percha—that most important factor in the manufacture of these cables—since it had been impossible to put a stop to the native methods of collecting which threatened to lead to the extermination of the gutta yielding trees.

After an investigation of the natural supply of gutta percha, started in 1884, attempts were made to cultivate the gutta percha producing tree (Palaquium spec). The experimental plantings, made in the Agricultural Garden at Buitenzorg, and, later, on a larger scale at Tjipetir, still exist and have grown into large trees and supply the seeds required for the further extension of plantations.

America Stands Ready To Give Financial Help For Recovery Of The World

Reduction In The Federal Reserve Bank Charges Indicate Ample Credit; San Francisco Cuts Rate

New York, June 9.—Increasing importance is being attached by bankers and business men to the growing abundance of capital that has in the last few months been made available for investments and, in the future, for the world-wide recovery in business in which the United States is expected to play a leading, if not the leading role.

For this reason, that of studying the various barometers wherewith a clue can be obtained as to what might be expected in the early future, the action taken last Friday by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco in reducing its rediscount rate to the same level as that of the Reserve Bank of New York was regarded as of significance. The San Francisco institution lowered its rediscount figure from the 4½ percent level which had obtained for a year or longer to 4 percent. The new rate, as was the case with the New York reduction, brought the quotation to the low mark. The influences inducing such action were said to have been primarily the same as those causing similar action by the New York district: a steady increase in the amount of money available for lending purposes, a more liquid condition reached by the member banks in the district and, as a result, a lessened demand by the member banks for credits from the Government institution.

The San Francisco bank was the third of the twelve Federal Reserve institutions to depart from the 4½ percent level. It followed the precedent set by the New York Bank one month ago and a fortnight ago by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland. Nine Federal Reserve banks are still adhering to the old level, but it has generally been believed by New York bankers that they, too, would find it advisable to reduce the quotation, save, possibly, for some of the central banks in the South. There, it was indicated, a somewhat different situation exists: the Southern cities have noticed a comparatively slight relaxation in credit demands due in part to the development of the South's resources, the growth of manufacturing and, equally important, to the building boom that is under way in some of the States on the seaboard.

THE OTHER RESERVE BANKS

Contrary to what had been expected, the two cities in Reserve district territory contiguous to that of the New York bank have as yet failed to make any change. Meetings of the boards of both the Boston and Philadelphia district banks were held soon after the New York institution had lowered its rediscount charge, but at both sessions it was decided to let the present 4½ percent rate hold good for the time. These banks had been expected to take action even before the Cleveland and San Francisco institutions had acted, for it was noted, they operate under conditions almost parallel to those affecting interest rates in New York and, in the past, have followed closely whatever action has been taken by the local bank.

A study of Reserve Bank reports covering the period of one month has shown a steady mounting of the reserve ratio, which in itself affords an excellent indication of the ease or tension of the credit structure. Both Boston and Philadelphia stand close to New York in point of high reserve ratios and both have ratios that are higher than that of the San Francisco bank.

Concentration of a large share of the nation's business and credit machinery in the New York district has served to make the New York bank a leader of all institutions forming the Reserve System and post-war history has shown that virtually all of the district banks, particularly those in the eastern half of the continent, have followed sooner or later the course struck by the local bank. Likewise, it has been noted, the prosperity indices of the rest of the country have registered in much the same way as those of the New York territory, although the process may have been delayed for a matter of weeks and in some cases of months, the proccess having been likened to that of a wave, starting from New York and gradually reaching into the cities of the North, South and West.

Evidence that the nation as a whole has found itself in possession of abundant credit resources with, for the moment, no pressing need calling for their utilisation, has been furnished in the call loan market of this city; even interest rates that have been quoted so low as 2½ percent and quite frequently at 3 percent have been sufficiently attractive to draw large sums from the interior banks for employment in the domestic money markets. The markets for bankers' acceptances, for Liberty bonds and for other kinds of high-grade paper, have likewise attested to this fact and with the exception of the South it has been noted by bankers that banks in many cities are eager to loan money in New York at 4 percent rates, or even lower. Continuation of this demand for channels in which to place money at work would necessarily work toward rediscount rate reductions, it was believed, in other Reserve cities. The low rate in New York has not served in the slightest to change the trend that had carved its definite channels prior to the marking down of the local quotation.

AMERICA AND WORLD INDUSTRY

Entering into the picture at this point has been the likelihood of heavy foreign financing to be done in the American market this year and next in anticipation of world commercial recovery. Confidence has for the first time begun to make itself apparent in the conclusions of bankers with regard to the possible settlement of the European reparation problem, and, this question eliminated, they have given study to the probable econonomic developments in the longdelayed return to pre-war conditions. Germany's acceptance of the Dawes report has moved in a few short days a heavy weight of pessimism, and while France's attitude is still a matter of doubt in view of the political situation there, it has been assumed all along that Germany, rather than France, would provide the real test as to whether success or failure would meet the Dawes plan.

Fair assurances having been received that the vital problem of reparations is at least well on its way toward solution, the banking viewpoint has indicated satisfaction rather than displeasure with the abundant money supply and ample credit now available in America, this even though interest rates have been lowered, consequently reducing to a degree their margins of profit. But a tremendous task still lies ahead of the world to carry on further the work begun by the Dawes committee, and only through the possession of a credit supply sufficient not only to care for home needs but also for world needs is it believed by economists that America can play in world recovery the part assigned to her.

Stock Market Situation And Financial Outlook In New York Are Reviewed

Traders Preserve A Waiting Attitude; Operations Are Mainly Professional; Advance In Bonds

New York, May 19.—Traders maintained their attitude of waiting in most of the speculative markets last week. Dullness was the common characteristic of the leading exchanges. The only definite movement of prices took place in bonds, the Liberties and other prime issues moving into new high ground for the year.

Sporadic attempts, both bulling and bearing stocks, failed. Prices were boomed on rumors of dividends and other special developments rather than on any expectation or claim of improvement in the general situation. Politics continued the dominant factor, the developments at Washington being of a character to discourage commitments of importance on either side of the market. About all of the worst news is out but the bulls were, nevertheless, unable to impress their following with confidence in the immediate situation.

The rails have evidently been selected for leadership of the next forward movement in prices, but the oils showed more consistent strength during the week than the rails. The average trader continues unable to shake off fears of what the politicians may do to increase the hazards of speculation in the rails and they may make very little headway, notwithstanding general appreciation of their strong position.

Oil shares occupy a somewhat different position. The oils have suffered so severely and some of them have recovered so little that nearly everybody is agreed that they are not likely to go much lower under any circumstances. Improvement in the industry continues, although on an irregular plane. Last reports showed some increase in the production of crude and prices were again reduced in the Mid-continent field, but oil shares continued to advance in the face of these developments. The buying appears to be of the character that is described as "good" in the parlance of the Street. Trading in some of the stocks is active, but prices do not move very far in either direction.

MOTOR STOCKS STRONGER

The position of the motor stocks also is stronger so far as technical and statistical factors are concerned. The industry continues to make a bad showing in comparison with last year, but its position shows steady improvement in comparison with the early months of this year.

Improving sentiment with regard to the coppers suffered a relapse during the week as a result of a reduction in prices in the commodity market. The reduction was attributed to a decreasing demand for copper and to expectations that the current month would show an increase in stocks against the expected decrease. It was the view that the falling off in demand would at least offset the decrease in production which was expected to result in a decrease in stocks and an improvement in the statistical position of the industry. So far observers have had nothing but estimates to go on. Last month the industry decreased stocks by about 18,000,000 pounds.

Indications of reviving business were confined to an increase in car loadings for the last week reported and to a more active demand for scrap iron. The increase in loadings was shown in comparison with the loadings of the week preceding the last week reported and not in comparison with the same week last year, a decrease being shown in this latter comparison. The reports from the steel trade were about a standoff, the favorable items being cancelled in most instances by unfavorable ones. Unemployment has increased in spots, common labor being the principal sufferer. Some improvement is expected, however, as soon as the harvesting of the crops begins. The South will begin harvesting wheat next month.

Improvement in general conditions is reported from the wheat belt, the outlook favors a record crop and it is stated that the farmer will make money off the crop, low costs having increased his prospects in this regard.

Two weeks ago it appeared that the bond market had advanced about as far as was to be expected, but this view was not borne out during the past week. However, it is probable that the continued advance in highgrade bonds has no significance in connection with the trend of sentiment.

Idle funds that have accumulated in corporations' treasuries as a result of the slowing up in business are adding their demand to that of the institutions which can buy no other securities and prices continue to forge ahead in these securities even after they have gotten out of line with the semi-investment stocks. Business men have not been speculating in their own business and they are not speculating with their idle money, most of them being more concerned with getting their money back on a dollar for dollar basis when they need it again than they are in the possibility of profits out of a successful speculation. This attitude of caution explains the general situation both in business and in the speculative markets.

FORSEES COMING EVENTS

The stock market claims the power of foreseeing coming events, but it has demonstrated no such powers. Prices were forced down on the Stock Exchange because they would not go up—an advance always being dependent upon the willingness of the public to speculate. Professionals can make money by selling stocks just as easily as they can make it by buying them. There is always a certain volume of outside trading in the stock market, mostly of a liquidating character. This outside selling nearly always carries prices lower when there is no buying in the market and the short can nearly always cover at a profit as long as nothing happens to change sentiment.

The decline in stocks probably had as much to do with bringing on the moderate depression business is undergoing as any other factor. The politicians are primarily to blame, of course, but persistent pressure on stocks by professionals had something to do with adding to the uncertainties of the situation.

The next few days ought to remove all of the uncertainties with regard to the immediate political situation. All of the pending legislation that is likely to affect busness one way or the other can be disposed of in that time.

The long future is regarded with increasing optimism. The bankers have already began to take definite steps for financing trade with Europe, the recommendations of the advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board constituted the most significant development in the news of the week.

AMNESTY GRANTED

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 30.—Germany, replying to the measures of clemency of the French towards the authors of resistance in the Ruhr and Rhineland, has granted an amnesty to Ruhr and Rhineland Germans who have been accused of collaborating with France.

The anniversary of the Treaty of Versailles was the occasion of demonstrations in the Reichstag today. The Chancellor, Herr Marx, and Herr Stresemann, the Foreign Minister, were present. The People's Party Deputy, Herr Cahl, said that never would Germans recognise the unjust verdict of June 28, 1919.

Radio Sets Consume 5,000,000 Pounds Of Copper In America

That Amount Expected To Be Annually Consumed In Next Five Years

A survey of the radio industry, just completed by the Copper and Brass Research Association, New York, N.Y., discloses that on the basis of an estimated total or 2,500,000 sets in use today, radio apparatus in the United States has consumed 5,000,000 pounds of copper.

The survey indicates that the number of radio sets in use will increase to equal the number of automobiles and telephones in the United States, viz., 15,000,000, and that this will likely occur in five years' time. In this event, radio manufacture would use in the next five years 5,000,000 pounds of copper annually. About 75 percent of radio sales are for parts and 25 percent for finished sets, so that, even allowing for replacements to finished sets, the home-made set is numerically much more important.

The radio industry has grown from practically a non-existent status only four years ago to an industry with a sales volume of $115,000,000 in 1923, and the total sales are expected to be over $300,000,000 in 1924. In another two or three years radio sales in the United States will undoubtedly reach the half billion-dollar mark.

Back To The Policies Of Woodrow Wilson!

ALTHOUGH the Democratic National Convention now in session in New York rejected a minority report urging the United States immediately to join the League of Nations, it did go a considerable way back to the policies of Woodrow Wilson. By proposing a national referendum on the subject of the entry of the United States into the League of Nations—with reservations to the League Covenant as agreed with the President and Senate—the Democrats have again made the League of Nations a subject of political controversy in the coming national election in the United States. Mr. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet, in moving the minority report in the Convention, stated that the last Presidential election in which the Republicans carried the country with a majority of approximately 9,000,000, was not a true referendum since the League issue was interwoven with many other issues.

A complete copy of the Republican platform is not yet available, but the summary carried in the news reports stated that the Republicans have reaffirmed their position of refusal to join the League of Nations or to assume obligations under the Covenant of the League. But while taking this stand, the Republicans do favor American participation in the humanitarian work of the League and favor U. S. adherence to the permanent Court of International Justice with reservations, and, of still greater importance, favor American participation and representation on the Reparations Commission in accordance with the so-called "Dawes Plan."

Other features of the Democratic Platform touched upon in the Reuter report of Monday of this week are:

2.—Pledges the Democratic Party to an international policy of co-operation and recommends sweeping reduction in land and sea armament.

3.—Recommends American leadership in securing an international agreement with regard to armaments and suggests a referendum of the people before a declaration of war except in cases of actual or threatened attack.

4.—Condemns prohibitive tariffs and pledges the Democratic Party to tariff adjustment.

5.—Favors a Government-owned merchant marine and condemns the Republicans for failure to develop an American flag shipping policy.

6.—Favors maintenance of the present established position in respect to immigration of coolie labor from the Orient.

7.—States the intention of the Democrats to obtain for America the moral leadership of the family of nations.

8.—Promises further reduction of taxes.

9.—Favors recovery of the Naval Oil Reserves "fraudulently" granted under the Republican administration and vigorous prosecution of those guilty of wrongdoing in the leasing transactions.

10.—Promises immediate independence for the Philippine Islands.

11.—Demands protection of American rights in Turkey and fulfilment of President Wilson's promise of an American mandate for Armenia.

12.—With regard to the question of the League of Nations, the Democratic Platform promises the support of the party in outlawing the whole war system and declaring that the only hope of world peace and economic recovery lay in the organised efforts of the sovereign nations co-operating to remove the causes of war and to substitute law and order for violence.

13.—Favors religious freedom, but fails to condemn the Ku Klux Klan by name.

14.—Approves the policies of former President Wilson and affirms an al ling faith in his ideals.

A careful examina n of the foregoing summary shows that there are few vital differences between the Republicans and the Democrats on many of the items. On the subject of Philippine independence, the Republicans apparently have adopted a declaration favoring independence in 25 years. The Democrats favor independence immediately. The Republican Platform indorsed the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament and favors the calling of another conference to consider limitation of land armament, submarines and the use of poisonous gases in warfare. The Democrats favor the same thing in other words.

In respect to the Tariff, the Republicans reaffirm their traditional policy of high tariff for the protection of American labor and favor the present elastic provision which gives the President power to make adjustments within certain limits to meet varying conditions of world trade. The Democrats condemn a "prohibitive" tariff and favor tariff adjustment.

The Republicans declared emphatically in favor of the payment of the European debts to America. The news reports thus far have failed to state the Democratic position on this question.

It may thus be seen that the issue between the two major political parties in America this year will be largely a matter of personalities in respect to the party leaders and a difference of methods in respect to the most important national and international issues. Although matters affecting foreign affairs have received most attention in the news reports, the real questions fought over will, in all probability, pertain to domestic affairs. Although the Republicans have maintained all along that the great majority given Harding four years ago constituted an absolute repudiation of the foreign policies of Wilson in respect to American participation in European affairs, this is not the whole truth. The "land-slide" to the Republicans was concerned probably more with domestic affairs and was a result of the reaction of the people in respect to burdensome restrictions and taxation made necessary in connection with the conduct of the European War. In all probability, the same elements will be present this year. There will be a lot of oratory about the League and the World Court and American responsibility for the unsettled conditions of Europe, but the arguments which will sway the average voters will be purely domestic and will have to do with the tariff, taxes, the oil scandal, agrarian discontent and similar matters.

Returning Russian Property

(Contributed)

DISPATCHES from Peking announcing that the former Russian Consulate at Tientsin has been handed over to the Soviet representatives and that the former Consulate at Hankow will be turned over to the Soviet on July 1 indicate that the powers that be have arrived at a state of saneness that has been much in doubt for some time. That the Soviet, as the legally constituted Government of Russia at the present time, has every right in international law to possession of the property formerly owned by the Imperial Russian Government is unquestioned, and why such a fuss has been raised about performing an action that was pledged to be performed in the pact signed between China and Soviet Russia is a puzzle.

Part of the puzzle is still unsolved as the Diplomatic Body in Peking had seen fit to, at the most, delay the transfer of the ex-Russian Legation there to the Soviet Envoy, and the former Consulate in Shanghai is still in the hands of representatives of the old regime. According to the dispatches from Peking, the delay in turning the Consulate here over to the Soviet representatives resulted from a misunderstanding concerning only the Chinese, and will, therefore, be remedied within a few days.

The situation in Peking, however, holds forth promises of international complications that seem to the layman to be a diplomatic version of the old proverb of straining at a gnat. The Russian Legation in Peking was the property of the Imperial Russian Government and that Government has been succeeded by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. It seems clear, therefore, that the Soviet authorities, whatever their political complexion, are clearly entitled to possession of the Legation. In ordinary circumstances, in fact, the Soviet representatives would have taken charge of the Legation within a few hours after Dr. Wellington Koo and Mr. L. M. Karakhan signed the pact of recognition.

The complications, however, arise out of the action of the former Imperial Russian Minister to Peking, Prince Koudacheff, in turning the Legation over to the Diplomatic Body in Peking rather than to the Chinese Government or an individual Power. At the time Prince Koudacheff was notified that he was no longer recognised as the representative of the Russian people because of the anarchy then reigning in Russia, he turned the property over to the Diplomatic Body, which stipulated that it would be returned to the recognised Government of Russia as soon as conditions warranted such an action.

Now the Soviet Government has been recognised by China and it would seem that the Soviet has every right to expect the property to be turned over to them. The Diplomatic Body, however, has seen fit to put obstacles in the way of such a transfer by delaying giving its consent to the transfer. Several notes have been exchanged over the question, the last one being sent by the Waichiaopu to the Diplomatic Body in which it is asserted that there is no reason why that Body should interfere in any way with the transfer of the property and insisting that the Body should direct the Dutch Minister, who is the actual custodian, to turn the property over to Mr. Karakhan.

While we have little sympathy with the actions of Mr. Karakhan in proclaiming a verbal 'anti-imperialistic war' against the Powers in China and attempting to incite the radically inclined Chinese to take strignent actions against the foreigners here, and think that, in all probability, the Russian Legation will ke the hotbed breeding similar propaganda, we do contend that the Russian Soviet, according to all international law and the standards of a "square deal," is entitled to the possession of the Russian Legation property. The United States, Great Britain, France, Japan, Italy and the other Powers concerned are debarred from dictating to whom China may return the property, and haye no legal right to delay transfer of it to whom China may desire. The action of the Diplomatic Body, to be frank, savors greatly of a policy of 'butting in' that gives a semblance of justification to China's contention that they were interfering in China's internal affairs without any right whatsoever to do so.

We frankly fail to see that there is anything to be gained by the Powers if they furnish China even with the semblance of an excuse to suggest that she is being unfairly dealt with.

There is no question that, in the end, the Soviet authorities will secure possession of the Peking property even as they have the property in Tientsin and Hankow. What the Powers hope to gain in the meantime by pursuing such an obstructionist policy of petty pin-pricking is a fit study for the physco-analysts. That they are breeding antagonism from both the Red Russians and the Chinese by their futile gestures over an inconsequential act goes without saying. If the matter were of great moment and involved anything of serious consequence to the Powers involved, it would be well worth a fight to the end. The entire disagreement, however, is of petty consequence and a brilliant example of some of the idiosyncracies the Diplomatic Body has been engaging in of late. It is to be hoped that it will have a mental return to normalcy without any further dillydallying and useless note-writing.

Germany's Latest Note

THE German reply to the allied vote on the resumption of military control could not indicate more completely the attitude that Germany adopts with reference to the question of armaments, which has, on more than one occasion, led to disputes with the Allies since the declaration of peace. Realising how completely Prussia circumvented the treaty imposed upon her by Napoleon, with reference to the size of her standing army, and being willing to learn a lesson therefrom, the Allies insisted upon military control of Germany in the early period following the signature of the Treaty of Versailles. That control was subsequently withdrawn, and there were many at the time who were convinced that this concession was ill-advised, and calculated to lead to a defeat of the very intentions the peace conference had in mind at the time the necessary provisions were incorporated in the Treaty. What made the step even more singular lies in the fact that even during this military control, instances were brought to light of the secretion of large quantities of arms in all manner of places, some of which were only discovered by the greatest good fortune. On the face of things, Germany had not complied with the fullest interpretation of the requirements laid upon her, and yet, nevertheless, the degree of surveillance which had originally been insisted upon was relaxed.

Directly it was so removed, evidence began to come forward that a mistake had been made, while the Germans went about the maintenance and improvement of their armament in a less clandestine manner, until it was felt necessary to bring the matter before the Conference of Ambassadors, which found no real difficulty in coming to the conclusion that the best interests of peace would be well served by a resumption of military control.

Germany's attitude, apart from general denials, seems to indicate a readiness to comply with anything and everything best calculated not to interfere with her plans. She will agree to an inspection provided it is final and completed by September 30, but in the forecast of the message which more nearly might indicate Germany's attitude there is the suggested proviso that the control Commission should begin its work by an inspection of the factories, though probably the last thing the Commission would require would be a prearranged program of its activities. But when it comes to the last point, there is a very definite attempt to restrict the scope of the Commission to matters which, it is apparent almost on the face of things, mean little or nothing at all. The Commission is not interested in what laws are passed by the German Legislature forbidding its people to deal in armaments; its object is to see that the German Government itself does not do such a thing. Nor would the destruction of mobilisation plans be half so effective as the destruction of the weapons to be used on such a mobilisation. What the Allies are more concerned with is the effective limitation of German armaments, and the removal of those material factors which might make another war possible.

It has never been the Allied contention that Germany should not be sufficiently equipped to enforce the sanctions of government, or effectively to protect itself against attack, but what they do watch with suspicion is any development which may assist Germany in again preparing so formidable an equipment as that with which she launched herself upon the world almost ten years ago. Prophesy is a dangerous thing, but it is difficult to believe, having special regard now to the French and Belgian insistence upon all factors which go for a European peace, that Germany by this Note will have effected anything in the way of a modification of the Allied intention as to how the Control Commission shall proceed.

The Oil Indictments

IN accordance with anticipations, the Grand Jury in the United States has returned criminal indictments in the cases of ex-Secretary Fall and Messrs. Sinclair and Doheny, whom the Government are prosecuting in connection with the oil scandals. It is significant that Mr. Doheny, Jr., is also indicted. All four are charged with conspiring to defraud, while ex-Secretary Fall is charged with accepting a bribe of $100,000 for using his official influence on behalf of Mr. Doheny in connection with the Californian leases and the Dohenys are charged with bribing him to take unlawful action.

While the spectacle of official corruption is in no sense rare in this region of the world, we have come to expect a somewhat different moral code on the part of highly placed officials in Great Britain and the United States. Cabinet Ministers and State Secretaries in those countries are favored with a tolerably high scale of remuneration, and it is surely at least tacitly understood that one of the chief reasons for such high remuneration is to discourage resort to corrupt practices. The shock, therefore, is all the more profound when news is received the world over that an official of a great English-speaking country should descend to dishonesty. The painful impression created by the oil disclosures is in no sense confined to the United States alone but has naturally extended to all parts of the world where English-speaking peoples do congregate.

One of the bright spots, however, in the gloom surrounding the oil affair is the report of Senator Walsh of Montana, chairman of the committee which investigated the naval oil leases. That document does credit to him as a lawyer, though it has doubtless been disappointing to the eager Democratic partisans who had hoped to make of it an essential document in the Presidential campaign. For Senator Walsh writes with judicial restraint. He has scrupulously resisted the temptation to make a campaign document out of his report. He calls no names and imputes no crimes to those so closely associated with the Harding Administration that their acts could not fail to reflect upon its character or integrity. His most serious condemnation falls upon former Secretary Fall and Messrs. Doheny and Sinclair, but even in referring to them, the Senator has been careful not to anticipate such civil or criminal proceedings as may be taken against them. The leases as consummated by ex-Secretary Fall he describes as "reprehensible," and he declares that, in transferring control of the naval oil reserves from the Navy Department to the Interior Department, President Harding acted without warrant of law. But these charges are not of the kind of which campaign ammunition can readily be made, as a Boston contemporary thoughtfully remarks.

It would not be difficult to argue from the report of the Senate Committee that former Secretary Denby and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt had been martyred by public clamor at the time of the Investigation, for the report completely exonerates both of having had any part in the negotiations which led up to the transfer of the oil fields to Doheny and Sinclair. The only measure of condemnation meted out to them a somewhat mild expression of astonishment that they should have been so thoroughly ignorant of what was going on in their department.

Politicians who had hoped to make a major issue in the Presidential campaign out of the oil investigation have undoubtedly had cause to deprecate the sense of judicial responsibility which has led Senator Walsh to refrain from any apparent partisan effort to make his report a campaign document. But in the end it will make for good government, for a greater measure of political sanity in future Presidential campaigns. It is better that the contest between the parties for the control of the Federal Government should be waged upon economic and industrial issues, rather than carried on upon the plane of mud-slinging and mutual recrimination. There were eminent Democrats, just as there were eminent Republicans, tainted somewhat with the touch of oil. If the measure of the offense was greater in the case of the Republicans, it was because they were at the time in office and charged with responsibility. The Teapot Dome leases, the unquestionably nefarious actions of former Secretary Fall, or the predatory assaults of Doheny and Sinclair upon the oil reserves, could not very well, in the nature of things, be made a dominant issue in the Presidential campaign, a fact which must be held to redound to the credit of both parties engaged in the Presidential tussle.

POISONING THE CHILD MIND

One of the recent discoveries in the art of healing is the therapeutic value of suggestion. That is to say, the physician, by suggesting to the patient, particularly the patient suffering from nervous disorder, sane and helpful thoughts about himself, can work a cure better oftentimes than by the use of drugs.

The force of mental suggestion is so great that many fads, and even new religions, have arisen which are based upon it.

If the influence of good suggestion be so great, the influence of bad suggestion is even greater.

I wish to call attention to one form of character poisoning of which parents are frequently guilty.

Perhaps the worst misfortune that can happen a person is to be infested with germs of fear, to lack decision and self-confidence, to be a prey to the terrors of morbidity and doubt of self. Who can tell the mortal pain, shame, and self-torture of the innumerable victims of chronic fear?

Frequently parents are responsible for this. A boy, for instance, develops some inborn trait of waywardness; he is untruthful, will not apply himself, is careless, disobedient, or persists in keeping bad company; the parent naturally tells him of his fault, and, as it seems to do no good, drops into a constant practice of scolding. Over and over the boy is reminded that he is "bad," that he will never amount to anything, and so on. This finally filters in the child's subconsciousness, and then the irretrievable damage; for when he comes to believe in his sub-mind that he is bad, he is bad.

Why not try to find the CAUSE of your child's defects and remove it? When you KNOW that blame and reproof do no good, why go on?

We do not realise that it is a CRIME to say to any child, in any circumstances, that he is bad, weak, or vicious. When you do that, you are planting a seed of damage in his mind.

Many a woman has been wrecked because her life was poisoned when she was a child by unceasing mental suggestions from her mother that she was naughty, wicked, unreliable, or untruthful.

Many a man is a weak failure in the struggles of mature life simply because the cult of failure was carefully instilled into his childish mind by his thoughtless parents.

Dwell upon and encourage the good that is in your child. Ignore his defects as far as possible. Learn how to shut your eyes. Above all, do not tell him he is wicked. Show him his faults, but never in public, but in sacred intimacy. Show him the consequences of wrongdoing; but enlist his aid in opposing his bad traits. Persistently suggest to him that he is good, brave, strong, and truthful. In after-life his belief of yours in him will tone up his self-respect and give him strength in his hours of crisis.

Crippled by Corns? Use "Gets-It"
The only good corn is a dead corn. A few drops of "Gets-It" will quickly start any corn or callous on the way to "the happy hunting ground." "Gets-It" brings instant relief from all pain and hurting. One bottle contains enough "Gets-It" to remove a dozen corns, hard or soft, old or new. Costs you nothing if it fails—but it doesn't fail. Let your druggist tell you why millions demand it. E. Lawrence & Co., Mfr., Chicago.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

BY WM. F. KIRK

I was looking at some bare trees wich was waiving in the Breaze, & I sed to Pa, Pa, I sed, why do trees wave?

Just to fritter its time away, Bobbie, sed Pa.

You two (2) are a good deal alike, sed Ma. I offen wonder how peepul get that way, sed Ma. I am seerus & ernest from day to day, sed Ma. I do my work & I improve my mind, sed Ma, for I reelise that the battel of life is a dedly battpl, sed Ma.

Yure battel wud be much moar dedlier than it is, sed Pa, if it wasnt for me, sed Pa. I am the flatiron kid, sed Pa, that smooths out the ruff spots for my little Tootsy Wootsy Wifey, sed Pa.

How silly, sed Ma. I always got along butiful wen I dident know you, sed Ma. My deer father offen sed that I wud always be abel to talk care of myself, sed Ma, no matter what caim along.

Yes, sed Pa, & then I caim along. Well may you bless that brite day, wife, sed Pa.

But you dident tell me yet why trees wave, I sed.

Bobbie, sed Pa, that is a bonehed question for a boy of yure age to ask, sed Pa. The trees wave beekaus the wind blows, sed Pa.

Why does the wind blow the trees? I sed.

Beekaus the trees happen to git in the way of the wind, Bobbie, sed Pa.

Doant trees nevver wave except wen the wind blows? I sed.

Sumtimes, sed Pa, wen windy littel boys are talking neer it, sed Pa. If we had trees in our house, Bobbie, sed Pa, they wud be waving all day long, sed Pa. You & yure deer mother wud keap them waving, sed Pa.

Yes, sed Ma, & his deer father wud make them bend oaver till they touched the ground, sed Ma. Bobbie & I are awful pikers compaired with you, deer, sed Ma, wen it cums to holding converse, Ma sed.

THREE CHINKIANG MISSION SCHOOLS HAVE EXERCISES

Twenty-Two Graduates From Presbyterian High School

(China Press Correspondence)

Chinkiang, June 28.—Friday of this week ended the week of school commencements for the mission schools.

The Chinkiang High School of the Presbyterian Mission graduated twenty-two young men. Dr. Kiang of Southern College Shanghai made the Commencement Address on Thursday at the West Gate Presbyterian Church. This is the largest class that has been graduated so far. They were indeed a fine group of young men. Five of them are volunteers for the ministry. Some of them are going to teach in mission schools some are going into business and a large proportion of them are going to college later on if not this fall.

Chinkiang High School has gotten out an Annual for the first time. The Annual is a very creditable piece of work and will be greatly appreciated by the patrons of the school. It is dedicated. To all those whose devotion to our Master have made possible this institution, through loving service earnest prayers and consecrated means; This First Annual is thankfully Dedicated.

During the last year the school has been full to overflowing and plans are on foot for enlarging the institution as soon as funds are available. The need for room was so urgent last fall that the Chinese members of the faculty started a plan to build a new chapel with funds raised locally. This building would relieve the congestion and at great sacrifice enough money was raised to put up a building but on account of an enforced absence of the Principal Mr. S. C. Farrior the building has been delayed and it seems wise to change the original plans some so as to make a better and more adequate building. It is hoped that the building will be put up this summer. However there is needed a few hundred dollars more to complete the building. A great many who are deeply interested in the school gave out of meager salaries and it is encouraging to see so much genuine interest manifested in the institution. It is hoped that such generosity will be rewarded by those who are blessed with larger means.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrior with their two children are leaving for their furlough, sailing from Shanghai, July 5. They hope to return to Chinkiang after a year in America and they hope to come back with enough money to put up some of the needed buildings.

The Methodist Girls School had their Commencement during the same week ending with an Alumnae and Anniversary Day on Friday. Many notable Alumnae were present and the exercises were very interesting and appropriate. The institution was established forty years ago. It has had a tremendous influence on Women's Education in China during that time. This institution is blessed with two new buildings Modern and Up-to-date in every particular. These two buildings cost something around fifty thousand dollars each. The last one is just nearing completion and will enable the school to be enlarged. Six young ladies received their diplomas from the High School.

The Baptist Academy graduated nine young men from the Junior High School. Dr. Poteat of Shanghai College made the Commencement address. This institution is just beginning its career and they have plans for immediate enlargement of their plant.

Gloomy View Of Fukien Conditions

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 28.—A letter received in Peking from a foreigner holding a responsible position in Foochow gives a gloomy account of conditions in the province of Fukien. He states that encroachment upon and indifference towards the treaty rights of foreigners in that region are becoming more and more evident and, from the point of view of foreigners, the situation has never been so bad as it is now.

Quoting instances, the writer refers to the continued searching of foreigners and foreign launches by the naval and military authorities, despite consular protests, and an outrageous attack made upon Mr. F. Poletti, Postal Commissioner for Fukien, by some of General Chow In-jen's soldiers on the Min River not far from Foochow, on June 15. Missionaries making their way from Shaowu to Foochow were fired upon four times by troops on the bank of the river, and the likin station in Foochow has seized foreign goods, which the local Consular body had, at the time of writing, still be unable to get released.

Japan's Premier Urges Many Domestic Reforms

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 1.—The Premier, Viscount Kato, in the course of a speech before the Diet today, postulating that the Powers were busy developing their national strength with a view to extending their influence abroad, declared for domestic reforms to awaken the popular will. He expressed regret at the injustice of American exclusion of which he would seek a reasonable solution.

The Premier abstained from reference to the Soviet question as under negotiation.

With regard to domestic affairs he endorsed the speedy enactment of universal suffrage, electoral reform, Upper House reform, official discipline and financial retrenchment.

Though the immigration legislation in the United States of America is now an accomplished fact," we can by no means concede that the question is closed. Until our just contentions shall have been given satisfaction, we shall maintain our protest and use our best endeavors to seek an amicable adjustment of the question to ensure for ever the traditional friendship of the two nations." Baron Shidehara, the Foreign Minister, thus summed up a review of the America-Japan question in his speech. He drew attention to the fact that even American exclusionists did not intimate that the Japanese were an inferior race, but declared that they were unassimilable. This contention he countered as "an arbitrary presumption, unsupported by any evidence of facts." He declared that Japan had never questioned the right of Americans to control their own immigration, but "recognition of such a principle does not lead to the conclusion that the exclusion clause may not be repugnant to the America-Japanese commercial treaty."

Premier Absent As Cabinet Meets

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 28. Neither the Premier nor the Minister of Finance attended the meeting of the Cabinet this morning. The official report of the meeting says that regulations governing the office of Tupan of Frontier Defence were adopted. These regulations deal with the authority of the Tupan and the number and scope of the departments under his control. It was also resolved to appoint Mr. Han Kuang-shun Taoyin of Western Szechuan.

General Yang Sen has telegraphed to the Government requesting that General Lu Chin-shan be appointed Military Commissioner of Kweichowfu and Wanhsien. General Lu is Commandant of the 3rd Division of Northern troops. This request is under the consideration of the Military Council.
